

ROBERT DONOGHUE

I've spent 20 years helping things make sense for other people. It's not dramatic, but it's important, and it gets things done. I've done it in tech companies, financial companies, and I've done it in my own company. My job is not to be the smartest person in the room - my job is to make sure the smartest person in the room can do their job.

What I Can Do

- I can move a project towards the finish line without getting detoured down a showy cul-de-sac.
- I can run a meeting where things get done.
- I can translate needs into actions and help everyone feel like it was their idea.
- I can tell why a project needs to be agile, and why it does not.
- I can absorb, transform and present complex data according to what's needed.
- I know enough programming, networking and hardware to be able to listen to people who know much more about these things than I do.
- I can write and speak at a level that makes it worth mentioning.
- I can figure out what to measure to succeed, not to just check off a box.

What I Know

Project Management
 Product Development
 Meaningful Metrics
 Agile Process (Scrum, Kanban, Lean)
Certified ScrumMaster, Certified Scrum Professional
 Business Analysis and Documentation
 Data Access, Analysis and Reporting
 Functional Interviewing
 Gamestorming
 Information Design
 Organizational Development
 Presentation & Public Speaking Presentation Preparation (Powerpoint, Keynote)
 Process & Project Documentation
 RPG Design (Tabletop, MUSH)

rdonoghue@gmail.com
 443.878.6659
 nevernotlearning.com